Afrojack

Monday, 5/14 @10:00PM
The Grand, Seaport District

Nick van de Wall, known to most of us as the legendary dj and music producer, Afrojack, is a Dutch born house icon.

He started d'ing at local bars and clubs when he was only 14. And in 2007 he released the song "Take Over Control" featuring Eva Simons which skyrocketed to the top of the charts in 10 different countries.

Afrojack does nothing but bust out hits left and right. "Run the World (Girls) with Beyonce, "Give Me Everything" with Ne-Yo, and "Hey Mama" with David Guetta are just a few.

Van de Wall has performed at all of the big dance music festivals including Tomorrowland, Ultra Music Festival and Coachella.

Nowadays, Afrojack is busy running his own record label, Wall, and raising his daughter, Vegas.

INSIDER TIP Fun fact- Van De Wall dated Paris Hilton for six months while he was producing her second album.

The Cookie Monstah

75 Newbury St, Danvers
Available Daily around Boston

Started by a Boston native and long time baker, Missy Gale, The Cookie Monstah was a long time dream come to fruition.

Forget your preconceived notions of sad, gooey vanilla ice cream and artificial chocolate coatings. Make way for delicious homemade cookies that come in a wide array of flavors such as Tahitian, Butterscotch, Salted Caramel and classic Chocolate Chunk. The even have a chocolate chip cookie stuffed with an oreo. A cookie inside a cookie.

Once you chose your cookie flavor, you get to move onto the good stuff: ice cream. Their ice cream is spun by hand from Richardson's farm and is available for you to tuck inside between two cookies of your choice to create the most delicious sandwich of all time.

INSIDER TIP The Cookie Monstah was even featured on Travel Channel's "Bizarre Foods: Delicious Destinations". Clearly, they are here to stay (thank God).

Somerville Porchfest

Sunday, 5/13 @ 12:00PM
Somerville

Hosted yearly by the Somerville Arts Council, Somerville's Porchfest is a Boston tradition. Local bands line up outside in parks, on sidewalks, and -you guessed it- on porches to perform for passerbys.

INSIDER TIP Stop by Redbones for a quick BBQ break before heading out to see more local jam sessions.
